

Angela Ambrosino (Ph-d 2006) professore a contratto presso l'Università degli Studi di Torino, Dipartimento di Economia e Statistica Cognetti de Martis. Insegna microeconomia, macroeconomia e economia delle innovazioni.

Interessi di ricerca

- Economia Cognitiva
- Analisi economica del diritto
- Teoria cognitiva delle istituzioni economiche
- Vecchia scuola istituzionalista
- Economia delle istituzioni
- Teoria del conflitto
- Mediazione
- Economia sperimentale
- Storia del pensiero economico del Novecento: scuola austriaca e economia delle istituzioni

Fra le sue pubblicazioni più recenti: 2015 Ambrosino A., Heterogeneity and Law: Toward a Cognitive Legal Theory, Journal of Institutional Economics, Settembre 2015, p.1-26. 2016 Ambrosino A, Maggi E, Vallino E, Economics of complexity and the analysis of Local Regulation: the case of Urban mobility, in The Political Economy Of Local Regulation Handbook, Studies in the Political Economy of Public Policy Series, edited by Professors Toby Carroll, M Ramesh, Darryl S L Jarvis, and Paul Cammack, Pelgrave.

Angela Ambrosino (Ph-d 2006) is a Adjunct professor, at University of Turin, Department of Economics and Statistics Cognetti deMartis.

Research interests

- Cognitive Economics
- Law and Economics and Cognitive Law and Economics
- Cognitive Theory of Economic Institutions
- Old institutional Economics
- Original Institutional Economics
- Theory of institutional and organizational emergence
- Theory of Conflict
- Mediation
- Experimental Economics
- History of Economic Thought: Austrian and Institutional Economics

Among her last publications: 2015 Ambrosino A., Heterogeneity and Law: Toward a Cognitive Legal Theory, Journal of Institutional Economics, Settembre 2015, p.1-26. 2016 (forthcoming) Ambrosino A, Maggi E, Vallino E, Economics of complexity and the analysis of Local Regulation: the case of Urban mobility, in The Political Economy Of Local Regulation Handbook, Studies in the Political Economy of Public Policy Series, edited by Professors Toby Carroll, M Ramesh, Darryl S L Jarvis, and Paul Cammack, Pelgrave.